There, through you echoing vault diffuse The song of choral words to God. Ye visible spirits ! bright as erat Young Eden's brithnight say ye shine, On all her flowers and fountains first; Ye sparkled from the hand divine,

Yes! bright as then, ye smiled to catch The music of a sphere so fair, To hold your high immortal watch, And gird your God's pavilion there.

Gold frets to dust ; yet there ye are ; Time rots the diamond; there ye roll In primal light as if each star Enshrined an everlasting soul, And do they not? Since you bright throng One all enlightening spirit own; Praised there by pure siderial tongues, Eternal, glorious, blest, alone.

Could man but see what ye have seen, Unfold awhile the shrouded past, From all that is, to what has been, The glance how rich, the range how vast? The birth of time, the rise, the fall Of Empires, myriads, ages, flown; Thrones, cities, tongues, arts, worships; all The things whose echoes are not gone.

Ye saw red Zoroaster send His soul into your mystic reign; Ye saw the adoring Sabian hand, The living hills his mighty fane, Beneath his blue and beaming sky, He worshipped at our lofty shrine, And deemed he saw with gifted eye, Thegodhead, in his works divine.

And there ye shine, as if to mock The children of an earthly sire; The storm, the holt, the carthquake's shock, The red volcano's cat'ract fire. Drought, famine, plague, and blood, and flame, All nature's ills, and life's worst woes, Are nought to you; ye smile the same, And seorn alike their dawn and close.

Aye! there ye roll, emblems sublime Of Him whose spirit o'er us moves, Beyond the clouds of grief and crime, Still shining on the world he loves. Nor is one scene to mortals given, That more divides the soul and sod, That you proud heraldry of heaven, You burning blazonry of God.
